

2009 Solar Decathlon Field Trip

School of Applied Technology
Humber Institute of Technology & Advance Learning

Humber College School of Applied Technology is planning a field trip for 50 Students to will travel to Washington D.C. to see the 2009 Solar Decathlon*

Available to students in Architectural Technology, Interior Design, Industrial Design and Sustainable Energy and Building Technology Programs

Leave: Friday October 9, 2009 Return: Tuesday October 13, 2009

Aerial View of the 20 Solar Decathlon Entries in 2007 including Team Montreal

*For general information on the Solar Decathlon go to:
<http://www.solardecathlon.org>

Cost is $415.00 per student including:

- round trip transportation via modern, video-equipped, highway motor coach!
- A visit to Frank Lloyd Wright's Falling Water in Pennsylvania!
- 3 nights accommodation at the Radisson Hotel Crystal City (4-per-room) Conveniently located a short subway ride from the Solar Decathlon Site and Smithsonian Museums
- An evening monument driving tour in Washington!
- All applicable taxes and service charges!
- Deadline for registration: 50 spaces available on a first come first serve basis with payment due September 18, 2009.

To register or for more information contact John Merkley at:
john.merkley@humber.ca

Frank Lloyd Wright's Falling Water at Mill Run Pennsylvania

For general information on Frank Lloyd Wright's Falling Water go to: <http://www.fallingwater.org>